... more then other citizens.

Education is the bottom line of all the improvements. Correct mind set is what we need across the board and new/old habits will spread surprisingly fast. For most people bicycles are, arguably, the first machines we encounter in early life, and returning to them cannot be more romantic.

What is needed is that masses feel safe when riding. Awareness for cyclists increases with more cyclists driving. It leads to less drivers and consequently more riders, less pollution, healthier and fitter population, solar powered society.

Please help us get this culture to the Balkans and believe me, I cannot thank you enough.

Kind regards,
Nenad Jovanovic

Congratulations for tackling climate change, CO2, ... it makes all sense in the world, particularly since a lot of old industrial technologies are most pollutant, and are on here on the Balkans.

In my opinion, there is no developed society without developed cycling. It is a social activity with evokes empathy, tolerance, connection to weather conditions, ...

The larger the critical mass, more empirical and knowledgeable will it become and will leverage the pursue for clean air, since contamination affects cyclist
