

Jelena Anđelić, Program Manager in IRIS Network and Initiative for Development and Cooperation (IDC) in Serbia

Social economist and civil society expert interested in social innovation, impact measurement, partnership development and networking. Member of and actively involved in work of various national, regional and EU based networks including the representation of IRIS network as a project manager from 2017. Member of the Coalition for Solidarity Economy Development in Serbia with focus on policy development and creation of supportive ecosystem for social businesses. Highly motivated project manager with seven years of work experience in programming, implementation and monitoring of EU, bilateral and multi-donor funded projects in Serbia and Western Balkan region.

Formerly involved in the work of public administration in Serbia as well as international agency. Member of IDC from October 2016.